Investment manager

Mercer is a global consulting firm. In Australia, Mercer has been providing investment advice and practical solutions to a range of clients including foundations, endowments, universities, corporations, wealth management organisations, governments and superannuation trustees for more than 45 years. Mercer offers a full suite of investment services, including research, analytical tools and advice, and an implemented consulting service. Mercer partners with clients across all aspects of investing and its scale allows it to offer a comprehensive suite of investment tools, advice and solutions to meet clients' specific needs and objectives.

Philosophy and process

Mercer applies a strategic asset allocation framework to determine the ideal portfolio allocations intended to achieve the return objective over the investment time horizon, investment philosophy and process with a preference given for lower volatility outcomes. Mercer's portfolios typically consist of a mix of income and growth assets and are typically diversified across asset classes, investment managers and security types. Asset allocation and security selection is managed, with a strong focus on risk, and continually reviewed to adapt to changes in market conditions. Mercer believes that markets are never fully efficient and aims to maximise returns on an after-fee basis for investors by balancing expected returns, risks and costs.
