

Securitor marks 30 years of partnering with advice practices

11 October 2016

Leading licensee Securitor, formed in 1986, has reached its thirty year milestone of partnering with some of Australia's most high calibre advisers and accountants.

Commenting on its 30 years, Securitor Managing Director, Mark Fisher said over the last three decades, Securitor has partnered with hundreds of Australian financial planning and accounting businesses.

"We are one of the longest standing licensees in Australia, which is a testament to the first-class services, tools and peer networks we offer. We're proud to have played an active role in supporting advisers to help clients achieve their personal goals, finances and wellbeing" Mr Fisher said.

Commenting on Securitor's success Mr Fisher said: "What's important for us is not only to attract and grow some of Australia's most professional planning practices, but to create a community of like-minded advice professionals who are dedicated to making a meaningful difference to their clients and their families' future.

"We've seen a commitment by our practices to their clients as well as to their peers. And this sense of kinship is what makes Securitor such a success" Mr Fisher said.

Securitor's 30 years will be commemorated at the company's annual conference, Convention16, which brings together 200 of its advice professionals from the 12-15th October in Perth.

Securitor offers practice management, compliance, research, strategy, professional development, peer learning and software solutions to 200 advice businesses in Australia.
